

ROUSING RALLIES AT DELTA AND PAONIA

"Big Four" Address
State Historical and Plastic Progressive Republicans; Hard Facts Told in Concise Way by State Leaders

Special to The Gazette.

PAONIA, Colo., Aug. 23.—The entire citizenship of Paonia and surrounding territory gathered in the main thoroughfare this afternoon to welcome its favorite son, Merle D. Vincent, Progressive Republican candidate for United States senator; Philip B. Stewart, standard bearer of the Progressive Republicans in Colorado, and other state leaders.

Greeted by martial music by the Paonia band, the party arrived early in the afternoon and addressed the assembled populace from autos. About sunset they left here for Delta, to address a rally at the Opera house tonight.

The first speaker here was Clarence P. Dodge, candidate for congressman-at-large. He made a most fervent and telling appeal for purposeful men in the public life of Colorado, citing the dire need of honest, energetic officials.

He was followed by Attorney General Ben Griffith, who explained the primary law and demonstrated how the voters, by means of the primary, have the power to eradicate the machine from political life at will.

Mr. Vincent was introduced by the chairman of the meeting, B. S. Rudlick, who introduced him as the foremost citizen of Delta county. He was wildly cheered by his fellow townsmen. Mr. Vincent explained his recent conference with William Allen White, who was sent by Colonel Roosevelt to investigate conditions among the Progressives in Colorado. When he announced that Mr. White urged the Progressives to go into the primaries, September 10, in expression of intense satisfaction, beamed on the countenances of the assembled voters.

L. J. Stark of Denver, candidate for congressman-at-large, and R. D. Rees, also of Denver, candidate for justice of the state supreme court, were present, but did not talk.

Mr. Stewart was the last speaker. He most vigorously attacked the corrupt influences that for years have controlled the party and the state. He asserted that the nomination of Mr. Taft was madness, conceived in ignorance and acted in wickedness.

Rousing Meeting at Delta.
Special to The Gazette.
DELTA, Colo., Aug. 23.—Passing from the meeting at Grand Junction last night, with its packed hall, overflowing meetings and fireworks along the line of march arranged for the Progressive Republicans, Phil. Stewart and his fellow leaders met with another ovation here tonight. Stewart, Dodge, Vincent, Griffith, Stark and Rees, who made up the party, all spoke and the state machine is getting the trimming of its existence in the meetings here.

Two features of the meeting brought out cheer after cheer tonight. One of them was the message brought by Mr. Vincent from William Allen White, the Kansas editor and politician, who as a representative of Colonel Roosevelt has been in Estes Park and in conference with the two factions of the Progressives.

"Fake" Societies for Prevention of Cruelty Are Reaping Rich Toll

RIVERSIDE, Cal., Aug. 23.—"Fake" societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals and children, which reap large harvests from coin collected as fines, have been exposed here.

The scheme came to the notice of the officials when strangers appeared in this city and began arresting parents of children, and owners of stock, on charges of cruelty. Many fines were collected.

District Attorney Evans found that any one who could muster four friends, to act as directors of a humane society, might organize and collect fines, the society which has been operating here paid its agents 50 per cent of all fines collected.

PROGRESSIVE REPUBLICAN BULLETIN

And now the word comes from Denver that the tide is turning toward Stewart in the capital city.

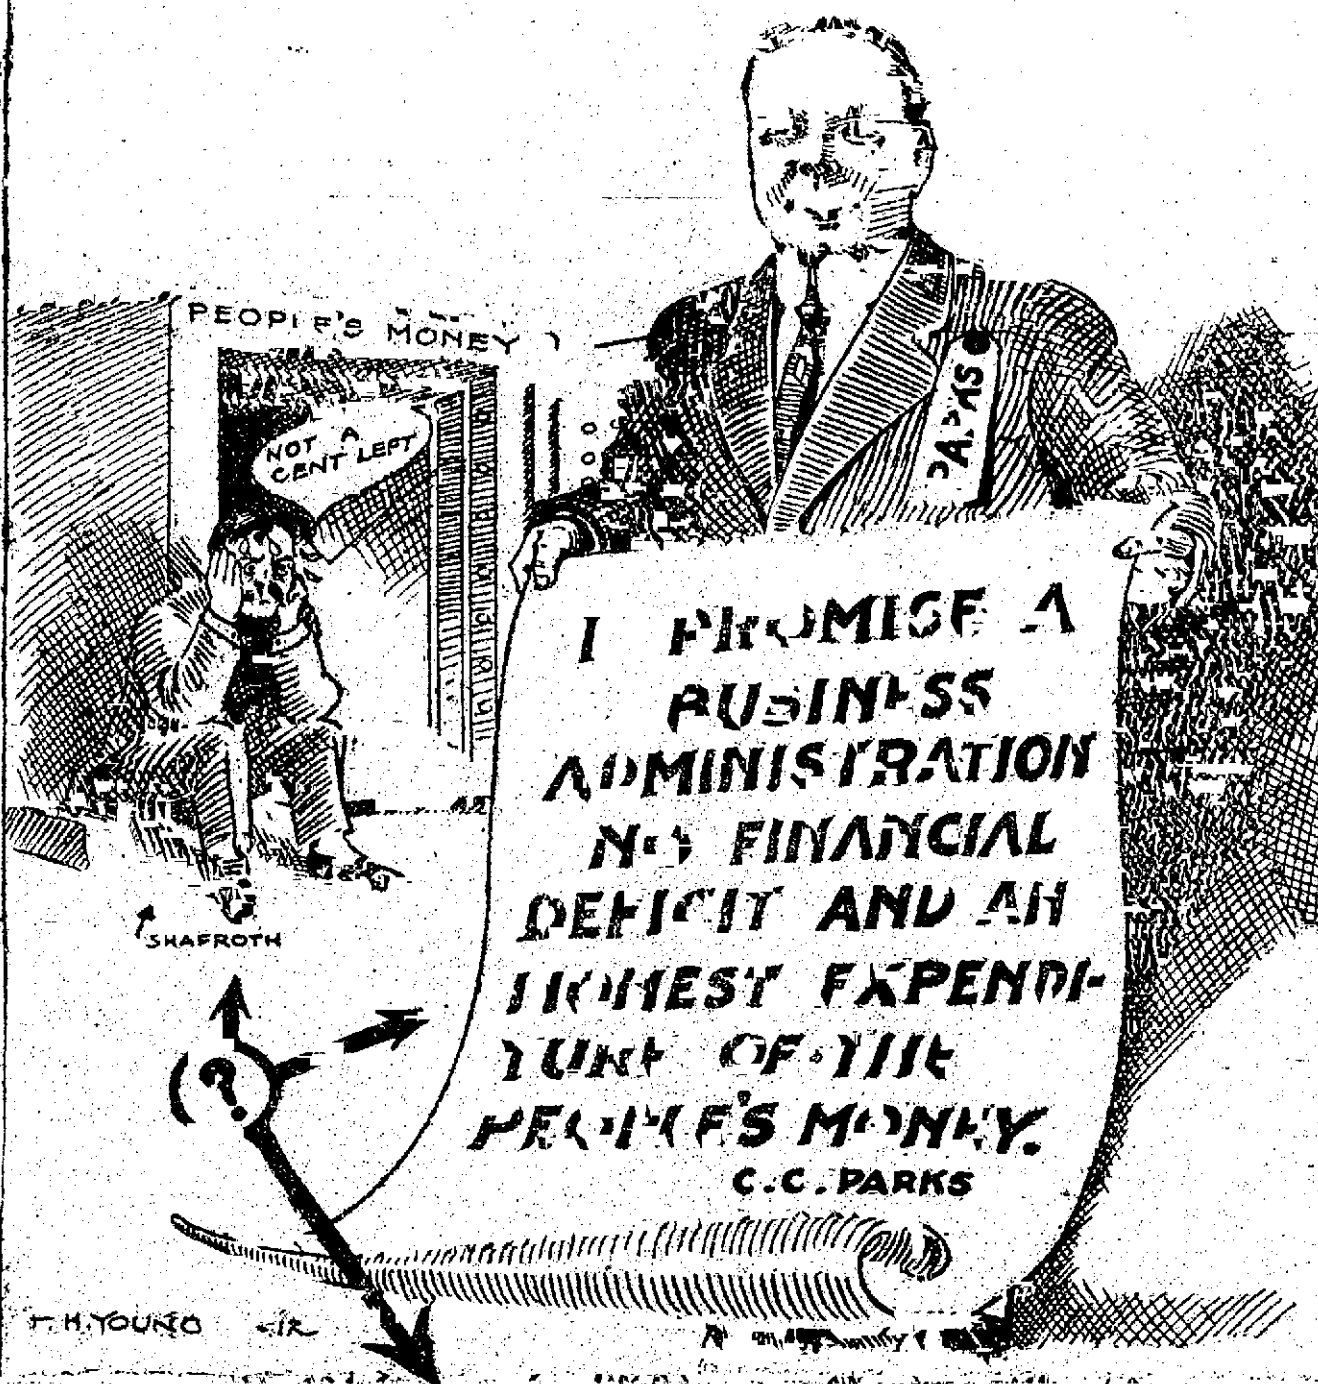

Republicans are beginning to realize that a victory for the machine element at the primaries on September 10 would only mean certain defeat at the polls in November.

A victory for the Progressive Republicans, with Phil Stewart at their head, would mean success for the party at the polls in November. IT IS NOT A MATTER FOR MARVEL THAT THE TIDE IS TURNING.

A Question Mark on the Afternoon Paper's Cartoon of August 22

M. D. Vincent Answers I. N. Stevens

"Mr. I. N. Stevens, in a published answer to my published statement of August 17, challenged me to a joint debate in Denver, Pueblo and Colorado Springs. I accept the challenge.

"He further stated, in answer to my charge that he sought and obtained a nomination for congress at the hands of the Republican state convention, two years ago, when it was controlled by Senator Guggenheim, that that convention was the most free that ever met in the state, and that he then prayed that the Grand Old Party might be the Progressive party.

"That convention, before it nominated Mr. Stevens for congress:

"First—Voted down my minority report endorsing Theodore Roosevelt's definition of Republican principles.

"Second—Indorsed, without qualification the Taft administration.

"Third—Commended the Payne-Aldrich tariff law.

"Fourth—Indorsed Senator Guggenheim for the faithful performance of his duties as senator.

"Fifth—Refused to take a stand for or against the proposed initiative and referendum amendment.

"While Mr. Stevens was praying for progressive measures and policies in the party, and obtaining a nomination from that reactionary and machine-controlled convention, I was fighting for progressive measures and policies in that same convention. We had no primary law at that time. We have one now.

If Mr. Stevens could with propriety accept a nomination from that convention, which denied seats to the Progressive Republicans in Denver, whose cause I advocated, and seated the Evans-Guggenheim delegation, which voted for Mr. Stevens, I believe there is no impropriety in Progressive Republicans voting at the September primaries for candidates of their choice.

"I will be more than delighted to debate Mr. Stevens on the propriety of Progressive Republicans voting at the September primary, when they can by their direct vote name their own candidates.

MANITOU DRUG CLERK DIED HEART TROUBLE

Death of Edward P. Sherman Was Superinduced by Electric Shock, Says Coroner's Jury

The coroner's jury called to investigate the death of Edward P. Sherman, who was electrocuted in the Greighton drug store at Manitou Thursday afternoon, returned the following verdict yesterday:

"That Edward P. Sherman came to his death at the pharmacy of B. B. Creighton in the town of Manitou, El Paso county, Colo., on August 22, 1912, by heart trouble superinduced by an electric shock received while working on electric apparatus in said place, and we further find the current of electricity with which he came in contact was between 100 and 112 volts, and we further find the said death was not caused by any person and no felonious intent appearing."

The jury consisted of Edward Smith, foreman; O. H. Hill, Richard F. O'Connor, Samuel E. Shellenberger, E. C. Hammond and H. R. Wright. It developed at the inquest that Sherman had been a constant sufferer from heart trouble during his residence here.

MINE PUMPMAN KILLED

William T. Jones, Working Near 1,600 Foot Level of Golden Cycle Shaft, Struck by Rock

Special to The Gazette.
LAUREL (RECK), Aug. 23.—William T. Jones, a pumpman on the Golden Cycle shaft, was hit by a rock today and fell 35 feet into the sump. Death was instantaneous.

Jones, who was 24 years old and lived in Goldfield, was about 25 feet above the 1,600-foot level, working on the water column, when the rock fell from above. He was married and his wife lives in Boulder.

Wanted--One Passenger to Go Up With Champ U. S. Balloonist

Will Mayor Avert Ride in "Uncle Sam" when the big balloon springs skyward from Washburn field next Wednesday afternoon?

"I am looking for a passenger, and I would be delighted to have his honor go," said Capt. H. E. Honeywell, who will pilot the bag, when seen at the Antlers, last night. "Mr. Dunning the bill. I think the mayor would just about do. I hope he goes."

The St. Louis balloonist had just returned from a trip through the Garden of the Gods and the canons, and he was enthusiastic about the scenery of the Pikes Peak region.

"I have never seen anything to compare with it," said Mr. Honeywell. "It was with difficulty that he suppressed his enthusiasm long enough to tell how safe ballooning is compared to acrobatics."

There has never been a fatal accident as a result of a gas balloon ascent, he said. "All the balloon accidents have occurred in hot air balloons, where a parachute is used to alight. The occupants of the car of a gas balloon come to earth gradually. Gas is let out, and the whole balloon sinks to the ground very slowly. An experienced pilot, by gauging the quantity of gas emitted and the temperature, is able absolutely to control the descent."

"I remember one occasion," continued the captain, becoming reminiscent, "when I had eight passengers in my car. We let out the gas and slowly came down. As we did so, we saw that we would alight in a flourishing wheat field. Not wishing to damage the grain, we skimmed lightly over the moving wheat and got out at another part of the farm. And we didn't even break the stubble on that wheat."

Arrangements were completed yesterday for supplying the balloons with gas. The three bags will be spread out about 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, and the gas will be turned on about a week. It will be shut off during the evening hours, when the city will need the supply, and will be turned on again at 7 p. m. Gas will be pumped into the sump at night, and they will loom large on the field Wednesday morning.

Captain Honeywell's balloon, "Uncle Sam," will be entered in the meet to be held at our grand hotel next fall.

ARCHBOLD TESTIMONY NOT TRUE AND WICKED ASSAULT ON A DEAD MAN--ROOSEVELT

In Statement Replying to Standard Oil Man's Assertions Before Investigators, Colonel Reiterates Denial of Charges.

Declares Senate Should Make Archbold and Penrose Testify as to Their Relations

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 23.—Colonel Roosevelt sat on the porch at Sagamore Hill for an hour and a half tonight and dictated a statement in reply to the testimony of John D. Archbold today before the senate investigating committee.

He reiterated his declaration that he knew nothing of a contribution by Mr. Archbold or the Standard Oil company to the Republican campaign of 1904; declared he did not "for one moment believe that Mr. Archbold's testimony is truthful"; charged Mr. Archbold with a "wicked assault on a dead man"; added that during many calls which Mr. Archbold made upon him while he was president to urge him not to prosecute the Standard Oil company, Mr. Archbold never referred to any contribution to his campaign fund; and concluded with the suggestion that the senate committee should make Mr. Archbold and Senator Penrose testify at once concerning their relations while Mr. Penrose was a member of the industrial commission.

In his last word, Colonel Roosevelt thanked both Messrs. Archbold and Penrose for "making it clear beyond possibility of doubt that I am the man the Penroses and Archbolds of the country most dread in public life."

Colonel Roosevelt's statement follows:

Pure Hearsay Statement.
In the first place, I wish to call attention to the fact that, even if Mr. Archbold's statements are true, they amount only to saying so far as I am concerned, that Mr. Bliss told him that I had knowledge of and approved a request for $100,000 from the Standard Oil company, which was granted, and a further request for $50,000, which was not granted. This is pure hearsay statement, and even if made in good faith, would be utterly valueless.

Not only did I never know anything of such a request being made, but I never published letters and telegrams showing that when the rumor that there had been a contribution reached me, I acted at once, reiterating my demand again and again that the money should be immediately returned before it had been given, and being assured by Mr. Cortelyou that the money had not been received and would not be received.

I wish to reiterate that, until Mr. Penrose made his speech, I never heard it suggested that Mr. Archbold had contributed to the campaign or been the means through which any contribution had been made.

Doesn't Consider Testimony True.
But I do not for one moment believe that Mr. Archbold's testimony is truthful. He apparently possesses such a moral standard that he does not understand the infamous accusation he is making against Mr. Bliss. Mr. Bliss is now dead. But during the seven years that elapsed before Mr. Bliss' death after Mr. Archbold claimed he made the contribution in question, Mr. Archbold never brought up any statement of this kind.

He now says that Mr. Bliss warned him that he was making a serious mistake in not contributing the extra amount of money, and that later on, when the administration began to doubt the Standard Oil company, Mr. Bliss said it would have been different if they had done as they asked him.

This is an assertion that Mr. Bliss was deliberately trying to blackmail the Standard Oil company into contributing by scarcely veiled threats as to what would happen if they did not contribute, and that Mr. Bliss, in effect, told them afterwards that if they had contributed the administration would not have proceeded against them for violating the law.

Wicked Assault on a Dead Man.
This is a wicked assault on a dead man. Mr. Bliss was a public official, and it is a disgrace that such a man should be treated in this manner. I cannot too strongly denounce the baseness of making such an attack upon an honest man who is now dead, and whom Mr. Archbold never ventured to assault while living.

I do not for one moment believe that Mr. Bliss made any such remarks to Mr. Archbold or Mr. Archbold's sons. For example, Mr. Archbold states that he and Mr. H. H. Rogers visited me at the White house, and that I then remarked to them that there had been some criticisms about campaign contributions. This is a falsehood.

Mr. Rogers and Mr. Archbold called on that occasion to protest against any reference to Mr. Bliss, and I told them that I would not discuss the matter with them. Mr. Archbold's sons, who were with him, also protested against any reference to Mr. Bliss, and I told them that I would not discuss the matter with them.

Mr. Archbold explained that the $25,000 given to Mr. Penrose was a political contribution, and not a payment for services in public or private life. The committee considered the advisability of inviting of Colonel Roosevelt to testify.

Penrose on the Stand.
Senator Penrose was a witness before the committee this afternoon. He introduced into the record the statement regarding the $25,000 contribution to the Pennsylvania campaign fund of 1904 by John D. Archbold and the contribution of $100,000 to the national

WHITE MAN'S LEVITY FORBIDDEN DURING INDIANS' SACRED RITES

Holland sat in the inner sanctum of his legal suite, four flights up the highest skyscraper in town. The vigilant guardian to his privacy had deserted the buzzer for luncheon. For the moment the head of Indian affairs for the first Shan Kive in the Pikes Peak region was dreaming, legal lore and the troubled affairs of mankind who come to him for advice forgotten. Perhaps, in fancy, he heard the tom-toms beat. Sweet savor of steamed purr filed gustatory sense, perhaps. Fine odor of kinnikinnick wafted through the night air from pipes of aged warriors telling to growing boys deeds of valor on warpath or hunting game in the long ago. Mayhap he was preparing an address to be delivered this week when he is adopted into the tribe of Shoshoni.

He had not noticed that the door was pushed open by a awarthy youth, and even the grunted "Huh" that finally attracted his attention did not cause surprise, because the figure and the sound blended as seamlessly into his fancy. The young man was nearly naked, in American clothes and he spoke excellent English. It took but a glance for Mr. Holland to see that he had before him a Ute Indian, for the Shoshoni, or Snake, tribes are short athletic men, and the Utes are of the Snake. The name comes from a peculiar snake-like gesture of the hand, which seems to indicate a misnomer symbol of some kind. Holland can work his way into an Elks lodge, but he has not yet been initiated into the brotherhood of his coming guests, so he could only mutter "Huh" to the effect.

Sent by Chiefs.
"I am sent by the chiefs of the confederate band of Utes, the Uintah, the Comanche and White River tribes," he said. "You mean Ignacio or Buckskin Charley?" asked Mr. Holland.

"Both," Ignacio is the counselor. Charley would lead our people in war. It is ever again they go to war, but I am Ignacio who snakes through me. He is angry. I have come all the way by permission of the agent, Mr. Wetmore."

Mr. Holland looked out through the open door and saw that General Asper, Chief of the D. & R. R. railroad, lay in the outer office. Sunday explained (Continued on Page Three) said one word to me about proceeding or not proceeding against the Standard Oil corporation.

During all that time neither Mr. Archbold or anyone else ever hinted to me that the Standard Oil people had contributed, or that there was any expectation by any human being that I should show favor to the Standard Oil.

Mr. Archbold shows his animus in his rather ludicrous complaint that "darkest Africa never saw anything like the persecution of the Standard Oil corporation by the Roosevelt administration." I do not wonder that he feels bitterly. The action in question disclosed all kinds of improper practices on the part of the Standard Oil company and a colossal series of rebuffs. A stop was put to these rebuffs because of the action of the people in my administration, and through the action a fine was imposed which the Standard Oil company refused to pay, which it had not been reversed by the appellate division, would really have made that corporation smart; and even as it was, it forced them to act properly.

Appears to Be a "Frameup."

It seems to me that the course of Mr. Penrose in this matter, and the bringing in of Mr. Archbold, to testify, was a frameup, and that the New York police situation at this time, would be called a "frameup," and this is shown by the questions which Mr. Archbold is asked and those he is not asked.

It appears that Mr. Penrose while a member of the industrial commission received the check of $25,000 from Mr. Archbold, and that he was serving on that commission in a particularly confidential relation to Mr. Archbold, among the instances of his position as Mr. Archbold's representative on the committee being that he communicated in advance to Mr. Archbold the report which the industrial commission had about to make, and secured his approval in advance of its publication.

Mr. Penrose and Mr. Archbold should both be examined upon this transaction and see if there can be any possible way in which they could explain it, or in which Mr. Penrose can justify himself.

Both Should Be Examined.

These documents show that Mr. Penrose, nominally the representative of the people, was secretly in the dark, acting as the representative of Mr. Archbold. Mr. Archbold's testimony shows that he sought to get, and hoped to get, from me and my administration, some improper consideration, and he comes now to the defense of his friend and ally, Mr. Penrose—parade him as a victim, and assault me because he could not influence me; because, under my administration, justice was meted out to him and his kind as it should have been meted out.

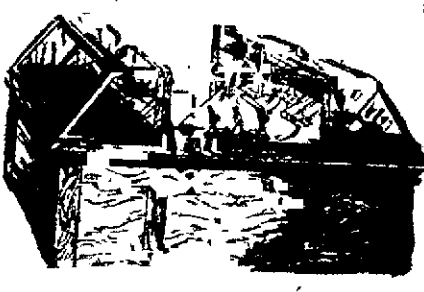

I feel that the country has a right to expect the committee to refuse to permit Mr. Archbold to go away until he has testified to every fact within his knowledge. He and Mr. Penrose both should be rigorously cross-examined as to the transactions between them and as to their relations together in previous years.

Meanwhile, I wish to thank them both for having made it clear beyond possibility of doubt that I am the man whom the Penroses and Archbolds of the country most dread in public life.

The jury was completed after a venire of 40 names had been drawn, and the men appeared in the west side court this afternoon. Two grand jurors were accepted yesterday out of the first venire of 25 names drawn the first of the week, when the grand jury was ordered.

The accepted jury was told to appear in the west side court tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, when Judge Shattuck will deliver his instructions and outline the scope of the proposed investigation. GOVERNOR WEST TO BEGIN MORAL "HOUSE CLEANING" IN CITY OF PORTLAND, ORE.

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 23.—Governor Oswald West served notice today on the authorities of the city of Portland and Multnomah county, that he proposed to institute next Monday a moral "house cleaning" in Portland, with the help of the local authorities if they will give it, without it if they do not care to assist and in spite of them if they try to block his efforts.

The governor arrived here from Salem early today and at once telephoned to Mayor A. G. Rushlight, Chief of Police W. A. Stovall, District Attorney George J. Cameron and Sheriff R. L. Stevens to meet him in the mayor's office.

All except the sheriff were present. Mr. Stevens sent word he was "too busy."

The governor declared his purpose and the officials proffered their assistance. Rushlight and Stovall told the governor, however, that they did not take much stock in his program. They advocated, as the only solution, the creation of a restricted district and asserted that nothing would be accomplished by a crusade except to drive the unfortunates from one hiding place to another.

OLD TIME PIONEER FIREMEN TO ORGANIZE

Hold Rousing Meeting and Name Committees for Carnival and By-Laws

Last night the volunteer firemen of the old department met at the city council room and voted to take part in the pioneer parade next Wednesday. Also they voted to have a permanent organization, and named a committee to prepare a set of by-laws and call the meeting for organization.

J. W. D. Stovell, a past chief and president of the organization, formed last year, presided, and H. S. Rogers acted as secretary.

During the evening Frank Fairback, a prominent citizen of St. Louis, gave the veterans an address. He is a past president of the St. Louis Veteran Firemen's association, and knows all about the work of such organizations, as well as having run with the machine in the old band days. He is progressive, and pointed out the advantages of the new methods over the old. His remarks were encouraging to those who hope to have a permanent organization.

A committee of three was named to take charge of the firemen's end of the parade next Wednesday, get the cars ready, have decorations placed, procure badges and arrange for a meeting place for the members on Wednesday morning. This committee is Harvey Gillingham, Frank Rudy and Frank Enquist.

A committee on permanent organization was named, composed of William Bancroft, E. E. Baty and H. S. Rogers.

FOREST FIRE FIGHTERS TRY TO CHECK FLAMES

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 23.—More than 100 fire fighters strove tonight to hold in check a forest conflagration that threatened to devour the entire San Gabriel watershed to the east of here. campaign fund, which he made Wednesday in the senate. He said he had practically nothing to add to that but would answer any questions.

Senator Penrose's testimony was brief and corroboratory of Mr. Archbold's. At its conclusion the committee adjourned and it was announced that George W. Perkins of New York would appear next Tuesday.

Chairman Clapp was in communication with New York city over the long distance telephone today and it was said he had been discussing with some one there the probability of Colonel Roosevelt's appearing.

The nature of his conversation could not be learned.

When the committee assembled, Mr. Archbold was sworn and Senator Clapp asked him what contribution the Standard Oil company had made to the campaign of 1904.

Two Contributions Archbold Says.

"We made two contributions to the Republican campaign in 1904, one to Cornelius N. Bliss of $100,000 and the other to Senator Penrose of $25,000," replied Mr. Archbold.

"Do you know when the contribution of $100,000 to the Republican campaign fund was made?" asked Senator Clapp.

"I have not the date in mind," said Mr. Archbold, "nor have I had time to thoroughly search with reference to it. My best recollection is that it was some time in September 1904. I think about the middle of September."

"By check?" asked Senator Clapp.

"My recollection is that it was given to Mr. Bliss in currency."

"Who was present?"

"To the best of my recollection I was alone—and at my office."

"Have you any written data with which to fix the date?"

"Mr. Bliss gave me a receipt, but in such investigation as I have been able to make before I hastened here I have not been able to find it. I hope to do so."

"Had you any previous talk with Mr. Bliss as to this matter before you made the contribution?" asked Mr. Clapp.

"Yes, some time before either at my office or that of H. H. Rogers," replied Mr. Archbold, "we had a talk about politics and contributions. I said the matter would have to be submitted to our board. It was submitted later and the board agreed to contribute."

"Was the $25,000 contribution to Senator Penrose in the form of a check?"

"Paid Penrose in Currency."

"I cannot say. My letter books show no record of any such letter as has been published to denude the entire San Gabriel watershed to the east of here. A large tract was burned over, and at midnight the flames were spreading. The spectacle was watched by the people of Los Angeles and Pasadena. No timber stands in the mountains, but the destruction of the dense small growth will mean great loss to the water system of the San Gabriel valley."

Subsequent to these contributions, Mr. Archbold said, he talked with Mr. Bliss, not later than October 1 about further contributions. He thought Mr. Rogers might have been present. He remembered that no one else was present.

"What was the result of these conferences?" asked Senator Clapp.

"We decided not to make the further contribution."

Mr. Archbold said that in the 1904 campaign he had not been connected with the United States Steel corporation, the American Tobacco, the American Sugar Refining company, or any railroad combination and that he had not discussed with any representative of the corporation the question of campaign contributions.

"Did you have any conferences with anyone except Mr. Bliss, whom you mentioned?"

Mr. Archbold said that in the 1904 campaign he had not been connected with the United States Steel corporation, the American Tobacco, the American Sugar Refining company, or any railroad combination and that he had not discussed with any representative of the corporation the question of campaign contributions.

"What was the result of these conferences?" asked Senator Clapp.

knew or understood, to represent Colonel Roosevelt?" asked Senator Clapp.

"No, I talked very frankly with Mr. Bliss. I told him we wanted to make this contribution, but not without the knowledge of the powers that be. We wanted it understood and appreciated by Colonel Roosevelt. Mr. Bliss smilingly assured me that that would be the case."

Asked by Senator Clapp if he made any personal contributions, the witness replied that if he had it was a small amount and he had no recollection of it. He said he had no knowledge of either John D. Rockefeller or William Rockefeller making individual contributions to the campaign.

No Personal Knowledge.

Do you have any knowledge or did you hear such reports as you believed, of individuals contributing to the Republican campaign fund in 1904, persisted Mr. Clapp.

"I have no absolute personal knowledge," said Mr. Archbold. "Such as would justify me in testifying. Of course I was aware of the talk of the Harriman contribution, but I had no personal knowledge of it."

The Ohio senator could not remember the date at which he first heard of it.

"Were you solicited by Mr. Harriman?"

"I don't recall that I was, but I have seen my name mentioned as being among the contributors. If money was given by Mr. Rogers or my other business associates, it was without my knowledge."

The witness said he had understood the Harriman contribution was $240,000 or $250,000.

That ended Senator Clapp's examination and the witness was turned over to Senator Pomerene.

The Ohio senator began at once an effort to learn more details of the $125,000 contribution of 1904. Mr. Archbold said that he had talked with Mr. Bliss about it a week prior to the time he gave the money.

Three Persons at Interview.

"Who was present at that interview?" asked Senator Pomerene.

Mr. Archbold's recollection was that Mr. Rogers, Mr. Bliss and himself were there.

"We discussed the platform and the individuals," he added.

"What was said about Mr. Roosevelt?" asked Mr. Pomerene.

"Mr. Bliss told us of his attitude toward interests. Mr. Bliss said that he thought Mr. Roosevelt would be a fair and conservative man when it came to a test and urged that the policies of the Republican party were the safest for the business world."

"It was because of his conservatism and you believe of the attitude of the Republican party toward the business world that induced you to contribute?"

"The party question was first," replied Mr. Archbold. "Mr. Bliss thought Mr. Roosevelt would fairly carry out party pledges. We decided that our interests as a business organization lay on the Republican side," said Mr. Archbold, "and it was decided that we should make this contribution. Nothing was decided about how it was to be distributed. Later," Mr. Archbold said, "it was decided after conference with Senator Penrose, that the Standard Oil men should make the additional of $25,000 for the campaign of Pennsylvania."

"Was this Standard Oil company money or funds of the officials personally?" asked Mr. Pomerene.

"It was company money," said Mr. Archbold.

—Understood Roosevelt Knew.—

Senator Penrose said that he had been given to understand at the time that Colonel Roosevelt knew of the contribution of $100,000 to the national campaign fund by the Standard Oil company and of the demand for further contributions.

"I also know of the urgency of the request of Mr. Bliss to Mr. Archbold for the additional $25,000," said Penrose, "and his saying that the refusal to give it probably would result in retaliatory measures, the theory being that it threw the powers that be as Mr. Archbold calls them, into other financial hands and that the Standard Oil company would be the 'goat' as the popular saying is."

Senator Pomerene inquired as to various interviews with Archbold and other men connected with the Standard Oil company.

"Mr. Archbold told me," said Senator Penrose, "that his board of directors would decline to aid in the national campaign if there was any secrecy about the matter—if their activity was not known to the President Roosevelt and Mr. Cortelyou."

"At these interviews was anything said about Mr. Roosevelt's views on the tariff?"

Was General Understanding.

"It was generally understood that he stood for a protective tariff as outlined in the Republican platform since 1893," answered Penrose.

"Was anything said about his attitude toward so-called 'big business'?" asked Pomerene.

"There was a general assurance on the part of Mr. Bliss that the powers of the presidential office would not be used in a harsh way for demagogic effect."

Senator Penrose said that in an interview following the first Standard Oil contribution, it which he was present, Mr. Bliss said the Standard claimed Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Cortelyou had been advised of the first contribution, dental preference primary carried out under a suitable law. You, as well as I, know what sort of law would represent a 'suitable law' for the standpatters of Colorado.

"He came out fairly and squarely and said he was not in favor of the recall. When he said this he said to every voter in Colorado, 'I am afraid to trust you—you are not capable of self-government.'"

"He was nominated in the state assembly—a vicious machine, attached to the law by the Denver corporations. I favor abolishing that feature of the law, and asked him how he stood on the question. He smiles and replies: 'It isn't all that could be required, but I like it.' Why should he dislike it? In that assembly Halstead Ritter came up as a candidate in opposition to Mr. Parks and the machine. The records show that A. M. Stevenson moved that a half hour's recess be taken, and during the interim the cards were stacked by Mr. Parks and Mr. Stevenson so that a deuce and a nine-spot was the best Mr. Ritter could get against a full house. His reply at least indicates that he possesses a spirit of gratitude.

"More important, however, than the others—the core of the great issue in Colorado this fall—was the question I asked him: 'Do you favor the methods employed by A. M. Stevenson and Thomas H. Devine? Do you regard these men as being fit to have a voice in the control-of-or-in-the-councils of the party?' He evaded this question. No answer came from him, and no answer need be expected, for 'as the father pitieth the son,' so does Mr. Stevenson feel toward Mr. Parks."

G. E. BARTON RETURNS

George Edward Barton, who started the plans for the Myron Stratton home to be constructed at Broadmoor, beginning this fall, has returned to Colorado Springs after several months spent in the east because of ill health. Mr. Barton's condition is improved, but it is not known how soon he will be able to resume his work in connection with the plans.

WHITE MAN'S LEVITY

that Thursday night he was called up and told that the local Rio Grande people were to look out for a young Indian who was coming here to see Mr. Holland, bearing a message from the chief of the southern agency, and that this was the young man, who had arrived at 4 o'clock. They had instructions to see that he was given transportation back to the reservation at 10:10 last evening. Mr. Holland then turned to his visitor for an explanation, and here it is:

"Our people are told from time to time many things that are printed in the papers, but they do not trouble their minds about most of that. When it concerns their sacred things it is different. Eighty of us are coming to the Shan Kive North. We will dance among the big red rocks. We will go to the springs and watch the breath of Manitou come through the waters. We will cast presents to appease him. We will give the Sun dance, the Moon dance, the Spring dance, the Harvest dance, the Dog dance, and even show how the scalp dance was performed, but that is no longer a dance with our people."

Offended by Levity.

"Ignacio is offended with the spirit of levity that has been shown in the things printed in the white men's papers. All of these dances have a meaning to our people. I am to tell you that if we are not to be treated with reverence while at the sacred springs or amid the rocks, then we will refuse to dance. We will depart and return alone to talk with Manitou. It is years since we came in such large numbers to make offerings and worship, and it must be done in all reverence."

"Most of the Rio Grande people are the white man's dances—given for pleasure and the people laugh and joke, and sometimes trim their bodies with gay things, but the white dances are different."

This was about the most astonishing thing that the Indian affairs committee's head had met since he engaged in the work, but he questioned the young man closely. Then he promised that he will issue orders that during the dances at the Garden of the Gods and following the dedication of the trail, and the ceremonies at Manitou springs, the white people must be respectful and treat the affair with due solemnity.

It seems the young Indian was satisfied, and left for home last evening. He is known as Buckhorn Joe, and is a graduate of Carlisle college, but, like most of them, has come back to the blankets and tepees of the reservation.

DECORATING FOR SHAN KIVE

Novel Features When the Old Timers Meet at the Carnival

Several hundred "old timers," some riding their favorite ponies, others driving the prairie schooners in which they crossed the plains in the early '80s, will take part in the civic parade which will be one of the features of the old timers and cowpunchers roundup here Tuesday and Wednesday.

With an attractive float, 40 feet in length, Commissioners J. A. Hinesman and E. C. Frost, William Barnum and R. L. Rouse will show a typical scene on the plains. Frost, who will ride on the float, will cook flapjacks and "sour dough" bread on a real campfire. Around the fire will be the usual bleaching buffalo bones and clumps of soapwood.

The country has been invited to come to draw the float, but as the nearest yoke broken ox is on the other side of Trinidad, horses will furnish the motive power for the camp scene. The horse cavalcade in the parade will be led by Andy Adams, author of "The Log of a Cowboy," and a man who has lived the adventures which he relates so delightfully in his books. Behind him will come the real cowboys who have won "chaps" for 25 years in their life on the plains.

In the afternoon, the cowpunchers will play trail games on West Colorado street, near Washburn field. This informal program of sports will draw the crowd and the public is invited.

The celebration will close with the big ball to be held Wednesday evening at the Temple theater. Before the new conventional dancing, a special horseback will be given on Nevada avenue in front of the theater.

RECORD CROWD WILL SEE

"PIERRE OF THE PAINS"

There will be a good crowd at the Burns theater Monday night, when "Pierre of the Plains" will be presented on "Chamber of Commerce" night. The members are determined to begin carnival week right by boosting their association. The proceeds of that night will be given to the Chamber. Because the show is a good one, and Monday is the initial night of the week of pleasure, it is thought that a record-breaking audience will greet the play's first appearance in this city.

Deaths and Funerals

OLD RESIDENT DIES

Mrs. Mary E. Butler, aged 68, died yesterday morning at the family home, 1209 North Prospect street. She was an old resident of this city, and was the wife of William S. Butler, for many years in charge of the heating plant at the power company. Mrs. Butler is survived, in addition, by two daughters, Mrs. R. H. Oklahoma and Mrs. Merrill of Indiana, both of whom are in the city. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Edwin A. Eisenwerth, aged 36, a Woodland park farmer, died Thursday night at the home of his uncle, M. A. Dickinson, 617 South Nevada avenue. He is survived by a wife and three children. The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the undertaking rooms of Fairless & Lane. Interment will be in Evergreen cemetery.

Mrs. George Barhyte, aged 65, well known in this city, died suddenly from heart failure at the office of a physician in Denver Thursday afternoon. Funeral services probably will be in Denver. Mrs. Barhyte was the wife of George Barhyte, one of the oldest and best known express messengers in Colorado. At present he is running for the Wells Fargo company between Denver and La Junta.

Costly Treatment.

"I was troubled with constipation and indigestion and spent hundreds of dollars for medicine and treatment," writes C. H. Hines of Whitlow, Ark. "I went to a St. Louis hospital, also to a hospital in New Orleans, but no cure was effected. On returning home I began taking Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and worked right along. I used them for some time and am now all right." For sale by all dealers.

TO STUDY CONDITIONS OF CHRISTIANITY

A plan to study the conditions in this locality as they relate to the spread of practical Christianity was formulated at a well-attended meeting of the home mission work committee held at the Y. M. C. A. last night. Another meeting will be held at the same place August 30 at 8 p. m. J. G. Ewart served as chairman of last night's meeting and Robert Crobie acted as secretary. A committee was appointed to nominate a permanent executive committee to have charge of the details of the work. H. K. Wing was chosen permanent secretary and treasurer. Plans will be made by the subcommittee to carry the work into neighboring towns.

LAST DAY OF SUMMER STOCK AT THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE

Today's matinee and evening performance closes the present run of summer stock at the Grand Opera house, with James Hawley and Thelma Players in Mori H. Shiner's greatest musical comedy, "The Time, the Place and the Girl."

This has been the best season the Opera house has had in many years, and only that the Colorado Springs Opera House company have signed contracts for extensive repertory to be finished by September 2, when the regular theatrical season opens with "Cohan & Harris' "orchestra."

This week's production has proved the "biggest success of the season," as hundreds have turned away daily throughout the week.

Up to date, over 2,000 people have witnessed "The Time, the Place and the Girl."

In the role of "Happy" Johnny Hicks, see James Hawley at his best. The entire cast of 20 speaking parts are by far the best impersonations of the season.

"Oh, Mr. Dream Man," and "That Small Town Girl," are two big hits this week.

Hundreds will be turned away today, not only that it is the last day of the summer stock at the Grand Opera house, but the high standard of the attraction, being the greatest drawing card.

The first floor at today's matinee is reserved.

And after the performances today you can go back on the stage and tell your favorite story.

It will be a sad parting around the theater all day Sunday, as the performers will be going to their winter engagements.

Call Main 129 once more today.

TODAY THE LAST DAY OF "THE TALK OF NEW YORK"

This afternoon, and tonight, George Cohan's musical comedy, "The Talk of New York," occupies the boards at the Burns theater, and those who have not yet witnessed the tinsel play-musical have an amusement opportunity in store well deserving of their consideration.

In the enactment of the lines, in the matter of singing numbers, in the chorus of 18 excellent voices, in the staging and electrical effects, in house comforts and general attractiveness, there is no other theater in the country offering so much at the scale of prices in vogue at this theater.

Theatergoers who are able to judge attractions on their merit have not been different in expressing their surprise and pleasure of "The Talk of New York" as it has been presented at the Burns this week, and while the attendance has been unusually large all week, today promises to exceed the Saturday attendance record of the season.

For that reason the Burns management requests its patrons who intend attending either this afternoon or tonight, to place their orders as soon as possible.

NOTES FROM THE BURNS

Matinee today.

Small prices, 25 to 50 cents.

The entire lower floor is reserved.

Any seat in the balcony for 25 cents.

The doors open this afternoon at 1:45.

"The Talk of New York" is worth good attraction prices.

George Cohan did his best when he wrote "The Talk" sagely the critics.

Monday night you can help in pushing Colorado Springs to the front by attending the Burns.

"Pierre of the Plains" is going to be the sensational hit of the special summer play season.

There should not be a vacant seat next Monday night for two reasons.

Firstly, "Pierre" is especially worthy.

Secondly, the Chamber of Commerce is fully as worthy.

The first floor seats Monday night will be a dollar, but you may have any seat in the balcony for 50 cents.

There is mighty good reason to be.

A divorce has been granted by Judge Little in the county court to Leonard Henry from Ellis Henry. The couple were married in Pueblo, July 22, 1912. Henry was married several years ago, but believed his wife had fulfilled her duty to get a divorce as he had promised her the money for such proceeding. It developed after his second marriage, however, that a divorce had not been secured and the second Mrs. Henry applied for a divorce in order that she might not be guilty of bigamy. She was allowed to resume her maiden name, Leonarda Musker.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 24, 1912.

PUBLIC UTILITY LEGISLATION

THE legislative year of 1907 marked the beginning of legislation having for its object the control of public service corporations. That year New York and Wisconsin enacted comprehensive measures which have been taken as the models of legislation by numerous other states. Nearly all the states had, however, many years before placed railroads under the control of commissions. These commissions had very limited powers. As experience accumulated it was demonstrated not only that commissions should be given strong power to regulate the service and rates of railroads, but of other public utilities as well.

State legislation regulating railroads and public utilities in general has been supplemented by federal legislation. The federal Interstate Commerce act, passed in 1887, has been amended several times, the most recent amendment being in 1910, so that at present the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce commission is such as to make it, in reality, a public utilities commission.

The following states have established public utilities commissions with jurisdiction over various public utilities of the state as defined by statute: California (1911), Connecticut (1911), Kansas (1911), Maryland (1911), Nevada (1911), New Hampshire (1911), New Jersey (1910), with limited powers; the powers being extended to make the commission a "strong" one in 1911; Ohio (1911), Oregon (1911), Washington (1911), Georgia (1907), New York (1907) and Wisconsin (1907).

The success of the regulation of public utilities through a commission has been so marked, especially in Wisconsin, that the question is being discussed in every state in the Union. In many states, such as Nebraska, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania, strong public utilities legislation will probably be adopted at the next session of the legislature.

That there is need for regulation of public utilities has been made evident everywhere. Governors have widely recommended the adoption of such legislation in their messages to the legislature. The experience of the states that have established public utilities commissions indicates that that method is the best one of securing justice to consumers and corporations alike. The favorable experience of the operation of the commission in such states offers a lesson to Colorado. This state should have a public utilities commission with strong powers.

A NEWSPAPER CONFERENCE

THE first national newspaper conference of the United States was held during the first week of August at Madison, Wisconsin. This meeting was held to consider the question: Are Newspaper and Magazine Writers Free To Tell the Truth? Newspaper men and journalists have held numerous meetings to discuss numerous subjects but this is the first instance in which they have gotten together to discuss this most vital question.

Papers were presented by officers of the Associated Press and United Press, and by well-known editors of great metropolitan dailies and magazines, and by editors of small reform weeklies. Every question discussed was hotly debated. After three days of frank discussion there appeared to be a general consensus of opinion that newspapers must either withstand the pressure brought to bear upon the news columns by advertisers or else an endowed newspaper or a publicly owned newspaper would be started to act as a regulating force.

Among the papers read at the meeting was "A Plan for an Endowed Journal" by Hamilton Holt, managing editor of The Independent. Mr. Holt said: "I am here today to make a plea for the establishment of an endowed paper and to tell you why I think it is desirable and opportune at the present moment." His indictment of the ordinary commercial press is this:

A self-supporting journal must be to some extent sensational; that is, it must give undue prominence to spectacular events and crowd out quieter but more important movements. It represents the point of view of some particular party, interest or individual, and does not give equal opportunity for the presentation of opposing views.

A glance at the newspaper and magazine field indicates furthermore that those journals which speak their minds sincerely and frankly and under a proper sense of responsibility are with some exceptions hardly more than paying expenses. Few can employ more than two or three high-priced men or pay their contributors properly.

Mr. Holt would have a weekly endowed journal directed by a board of trustees "composed of the most eminent men of different political parties and social classes." He would have a managing editor with a large corps of editorial contributors. The journal "would have no policy of its own except to publish reliable news and competent discussions of the events and questions of the times. Its motto would be 'Comprehensiveness, Impartiality and Accuracy.'" Mr. Holt would have a department given to the criticism of commodities. This department would criticize commodities advertised for the benefit of consumers.

That there are newspapers containing colored news stories, editorials written at the dictation of special interests and advertisements of fake concerns, no one will deny. But, on the other hand, it is equally evident that there are fearless newspapers whose editors have played fair with their readers and which have withstood the advance of commercialism.

An endowed weekly journal of the kind suggested by Mr. Holt would be an interesting experiment. It would be an experiment of a kind well worth making.

Permit me to commend the action of the Humane department of the city in a recent case, that of a poor horse that needed care or disposal. Mr. Reynolds, head of that department, promptly took the necessary steps in the matter.

OPIUM AND SUBSTITUTES.

From the New York Tribune.
Mr. Fitzgerald, the British colonial minister, will doubtless arouse much controversy and may incur some censure with his deprecation of the rapidly forcing the antiumium campaign, but he certainly seems to have rational ground for the attitude which he has taken. His point is that suppression of the opium traffic involves indulgence in other and even more pernicious drug habits, and that before pushing the former process to an extreme it will be desirable to adopt some effective course of action for the prevention of the substitute evils. It is well known that China was a hard drinking nation until alcohol was supplanted by opium, and with the abolition of opium there was fear that drunkenness might be resumed. That is not known to be the case here but it is known that the use of morphine, hydnocarpine and of cocaine and other drugs has greatly increased since the campaign against opium began to be effective.

NEW YORK'S CAMORRA?

From the Boston Evening Transcript.
A criminal who betrays criminals, especially when their operations have developed into a system and have many ramifications, invariably takes his life in his hands. The chances are largely against his keeping it to its natural termination. It was an incident of that kind that made the basis of the world-famous trial of the Camorra which has recently been terminated, with results that it is believed will make for justice and comparative social safety. When men begin to tell troublesome tales against the enemies of society, it is necessary for the interests of the latter that they should be placed in a condition where such tales are impossible, and crime has its instruments upon whom it can generally depend to meet even the most extreme demands.

The courts of New York city now have their work as definitely cut out for them as did the Viterbo assassins. The murder of the gambler, Herman Rosenthal, to prevent his interview with the district attorney, known to be contemplated, places a responsibility upon the authorities of that municipality and county that they cannot properly lay aside until the guilty parties are discovered and punished, and the system of which they are the representatives and agents broken up. Until this is done they cannot claim to be vindicated to the same extent as the Italian court. Their methods may be and will be different, but the results should be not less decisive and exemplary. That Rosenthal had something to tell that was damaging to the safety not only of those following his own lawless and pernicious calling, but of others, was evident from the desperate means employed to prevent his relation of it. Two motives were evidently behind the crime, revenge and fear, and it was understood that his proposed information, tended to incriminate two classes, supposed to be diametrically opposed to each other, the violators of the law and those sworn to give their best efforts for its enforcement.

It was a part of the informant's expected testimony that the gap had been bridged and that the two classes had gone into partnership. If that were true, it was important to both that he should be disposed of. His intimations had pointed to the police, or certain members of the force, as having a profitable interest in the criminal business. The gambler had not liked Rosenthal, even when he was keeping his own counsel and there, his methods were not so dangerous as they were in his present case. The manner in which the crime was committed shows how the speed of the automobile give immunity from detection to those who resort to secret assassination in a form that was common in an age supposed to be much darker than the one in which we live.

But if justice cannot triumph by keeping pace with a high-speed automobile, there are other ways in which its trained workers should be able to trace the guilt of this transaction to its source. Rosenthal was not the only man who possessed a damaging knowledge of this conspiracy between crime and authority. If such existed, his life was of little value; indeed, it was worse than valueless to society; but his death may have been so foully outraged and the public so menaced that only detection and punishment will satisfy popular sentiment or meet the responsibilities of the situation. That the police or any of them had a hand in this murder seems too monstrous for belief, yet suspicions that will not down have been aroused. A Tammanyized force will venture much, because it trusts in the protection of its creator. But there may have been a situation in which even its powerful influence would have failed, and when its desperation confronted those who would have been most deeply involved, desperate measures were adopted to meet it. It is likely to be a cause celebre until the truth shall come to light.

ENGLISH STUDENTS TO AMERICAN UNIVERSITIES.

From the New York Evening Post.
A plan for a kind of Rhodes foundation under which English students might be sent to American universities, is much talked of, or at least gossiped about, in London. It came out first in connection with the Imperial congress of universities. The idea is to induce some American millionaire to do for English academic youth what Cecil Rhodes undertook to do for Americans, and other outlying barbarians. There is no particular objection to the scheme, provided the money can be found, but a great many details would have to be carefully considered. It is plain, for example, that the number of English students into our universities would not be so easy as that of American young men into Oxford. Our system is more rigid. Matriculation is more hedged about, and in most places courses of study and periodical examinations are more inflexibly applied. Arrangements might, of course, be made to admit English boys as "special students." We presume, in fact, that most of those who came would be undergraduates. They would take post-graduate courses in the main, wherein they would find greater freedom. As for the great value of interchanged instruction and contact with different institutions, that has not yet been fully demonstrated in the case of the Rhodes scholars, for, at least, not in any way not known before. With or without a special foundation, English students will come to this country, to our technical schools in particular, just as American students have for years been going to England and to France and Germany. A special endowment to promote this ebb and flow might be useful, but it would not, as some of its enthusiastic promoters seem to think, wake us up for the first time to the fact that Anglo-Saxon means something.

Our Many Selves

By RUTH CAMERON.

"Did you ever know such a bright girl as Eleanor?" said the lady, who always knew someone, as she smiled and nodded to a young girl who was passing down the street.

"Bright," sniffed the old woman's wife. "Well, that's the last word I would ever apply to her. I think she's a perfect snick. I never heard her say an interesting thing."

"Yes, they were talking about the same girl. There was no mistake about that. Where was the mistake, then? No where. There wasn't any. These two people were simply unconscious, illustrating the psychological fact that our friends in our presence are what we wish to make them as well as what they are themselves."

Only a fixed personality, being a fixed personality, appearing the same to everyone whom he meets. Most of us are variable, the product of our own personality times the personality of the person we are with.

Surely you have noticed this phenomenon in yourself, even if you haven't exactly classified it. You have a friend who is vivacious and full of fun, always seeing the amusing in everything, always ready to laugh at any attempt at wit. In this friend's company all the vivacity in you comes to the surface. You laugh at things which would never occur to you as amusing under other circumstances and you are so witty that you are actually surprised at yourself.

The next day you are in the company of a conventional-minded person whose outlook on life is as heavy and serious as your other friend's is light. Today there is not a sparkle of wit in your conversation. Nothing amuses you and you talk bromidioms and conventionalities as naturally as you talked witticisms the day before.

Now could anything be more unlike than these two personalities who have inhabited your body in this short time? Is it strange that these two friends probably have a totally different idea of you? An even more subtle influence of a friend's personality which I have noticed is that we write a very different letter to different people.

Recently I had occasion to write half a dozen notes to different people on much the same subject. To some I wrote easily and chattily; to others I could only produce a stiff and formal epistle. Nor was the difference merely caused by the varying length of our acquaintanceships. One of the notes which I struggled over the longest was to a woman whom I have known all my life. And one of the easiest to write was to a comparatively new friend. It was simply the influence of their congenial or uncongenial personalities reaching me through space and marking it difficult or easy to chat with them.

And yet more than that I found myself writing to one girl in the same exact style, half sincere and half insincere, which she would have written to me, and to another with the same frankness which is her distinctive characteristic.

Really it is an interesting study, this effect of talking unimportant theories, just take the pains to observe yourself in this matter, and I think you will change your mind.

NO. 7 THE CANNON

The use of the cannon in warfare has practically revolutionized fighting. And year by year the improvements made in this line of destruction have been little less than marvelous. No military weapon in use before the invention of powder can fairly come under this designation. At what exact date cannons were first used in Europe is not known, but an instrument resembling a cannon, called "crakys of war," was employed by Edward III against the Scots in 1327, by the French at the siege of Puy Guillaum in 1338, and by Edward III at Crecy, and at Calais in 1346.

A form of cannon is said to have been invented by the Chinese about 618 B. C. There is nothing, however, in the history of the Chinese, nor in their "Dictionary of Arts and Sciences," that bears any allusion to their knowledge of cannon before the invasion of Genghis-Khan, in 1219, when mention is made of "ho-pas," or fire tubes, the present name of cannon. They are said, too, to have been used by the Tartars, not by the Chinese, and, very probably, were nothing more than the enormous rocket known in India as the Meerm of the Mohammedan invasion.

The Moors, or Arabs, in Spain, appear to have used gunpowder and cannons at the beginning of the Fourteenth century. We are also told that in 1337, when the king of Granada laid siege to Alcant, he battered its walls with "iron bullets" discharged by fire from machines. "This novel mode of warfare," said the annalists, "inspired great terror."

It is stated in the "Cronica de Don Alonso de Ocenara," that when Alonso XI, king of Castile, besieged Algeciras, in 1342-3, the Moorish garrison defended the place by "the throwing of bullets by means of a big fire, causing great destruction." That these bullets were thrown from a species of cannon, and fired with powder, is clear, from other passages in the same chronicle.

The celebrated battle of Crecy was fought by Edward III, in 1346, and Hume, on the authority of Villani, says an English had cannon, but not the French. This assertion is unsupported by Froissart, who was a contemporary and almost an eye-witness. He makes no mention of cannon, although he describes the battle very minutely.

Thomas of Washington, who wrote more than three centuries before Hume, and who not only gives a detailed account of the battle, but even specifies by name the arms and weapons used by the English, makes no mention of cannon, which he certainly would have done had they been used.

The oldest piece of cannon in existence is preserved in the castle of St. Jullien, in Barris, 10 miles from Lignon. It is 24 feet, seven inches in length, and discharges a ball of 160 pounds in weight. It has neither dolphins, rings nor buttons. It is of a strange metal, and has an Hindoo inscription, which says it was cast in the year 1409.

Cannon were originally made of iron bars, soldered together, and bound round with strong iron hoops. Some of these relics of the dimness of our ancestors may still be seen. One is in the Tower of London, two at Woolwich, and one is in the Royal Arsenal at Lisbon.

Queen Elizabeth's "rocket-cannon" is well known. At Bologna, in France, there is a cannon called "The Devil," there is an 80-pounder in the Tower of London, brought from Edinburgh, which is called "Monsieur," an 80-pounder in the arsenal at Berlin called "The Thunderer," two enormous 40-pounders in the arsenal at Bremen, called "The Messengers of Red News," and lastly, a 70-pounder in the castle of St. Angelo, at Rome, made of the balls which covered the old Pontifical.

THE HASKIN LETTER

THE WEEKLY WASH
V LAUNDRY WORK IN THE HOME
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

There is no part of the work of the home that gives more trouble to the average housekeeper than that of providing clean clothing for her family. While in thousands of families the steam laundries have come to the aid of the home, there are yet many who find them beyond their reach and who must be other provisions for this work. The inventor has done much to lighten the work of the home laundress, and each year adds to the number of labor-saving appliances. The old-fashioned washboard, has been largely superseded by the modern family washing machine which runs so easily that a child can operate it in case hand power is used. In a home supplied with electricity, it may be operated by that power and there are means which the kitchen faucet may be utilized. While some women insist that a certain amount of hand work is requisite to make clothes perfectly clean, others have found that the machine, properly operated, possesses many advantages over hand work, one being that it is not nearly so hard on the clothes. By the use of a modern washing machine a large washload, which would require a day to do by hand, may be done in an hour or two. The wringer, which may be attached to the machine, wrings the clothing dryer by pressure than can be done by hand, and the strain upon the fabric is not nearly so severe.

To most families the washing is the unpleasant part of the laundry work, chiefly on account of the dampness and odor of the suds. After clothes are dried, the ironing process is one that at least does not involve any hardships to those not doing the work, unless it is in the heating of the house in warm weather. If electricity comes to the aid in many homes, the electric iron is now in general use in every city. It is light and easy to handle, there is no outside heat and it can be used as long as needed without having to be reheated. To the women in apartment houses and hotels, the electric iron has made possible the pressing of clothing that would otherwise have to be sent out at considerable cost. To those not having electricity at their command, comes an iron similar to the electric iron, except that it is connected by a rubber tubing with a nearby gas jet and is thus kept hot without any outside flame. There is also a charcoal iron which is heated by an inside fire fed by charcoal which some women have found a great comfort, although it is not as satisfactory as the electric or gas iron because the black dust circulated when the charcoal fuel has to be removed.

Many Prefer Hand Work.
While the average housekeeper ready to admit the superiority of machinery over hand methods when they are understood, the words "hand laundry" still seem to indicate superiority to the minds of many. In some large city homes there are laundries equipped with the latest laundry machinery, and in others there is no provision for anything but hand work. Of the finest laundries connected with a private home in this country is the one at John Rockefeller at his home at Pocantico Hills, New York. It cost over $25,000 and is divided into two rooms, each containing seven large washbasins of the heaviest and most expensive porcelain. The 25 faucets in the laundry are silver plated. The other appliances are equally elaborate and all of the latest design. There are electric irons, patent clothes lines, hair driers and many new wrinkles which even the best laundries have not installed. Mr. Rockefeller doubtless being still of the opinion that can best be done by hand.

To the woman who depends upon outside agencies for her laundry work there are many annoyances. The faithful old colored laundress who appeared on Monday morning, or perhaps sent her work-hating husband for the clothes, is gradually vanishing from view and most of those who now take work of this kind have increased their prices so that if their work is good it equals that of the steam laundry in price. While some of these women bring home beautiful laundered clothes, there have been known to be so many unsanitary conditions in some of the homes that many women fear to send their clothing to them. Where one has a good reliable colored laundress, however, there is much less worry because generally she gives the proper attention to each article, and the results are good even though the conditions under which it is done might not come up to all of the modern sanitary standards.

Chinese Formidable Rivals.
The Chinese laundryman is not a competitor for family work in the majority of towns, and yet many women have had more or less experience with him in handling the men's work of her household. If the organized laundrymen have their way John Chinaman is soon to vanish, and in some towns they have succeeded in crowding him out completely. Despite their antagonism, however, the little Chinese laundry is often a serious rival. The charges of unsanitary methods, such as sprinkling the clothes from the mouth, are not often to be found now, for the Chinaman is in touch with the progress of the times. There are many American men who still prefer the finish the Chinaman gives to their linen to anything the steam laundry produces. Some of these Chinese laundries do quite elaborate work, such as the French hand-cashed and starched, and brought home ready to be hung on the line. This removes the annoyance of the

Ute Indians to Give Their Famous Moon Dance at Palefaces' Masquerade Ball

Moons, new moons, old moons, moon-faces, moonmad lovers—take notice! During the intermission at the masquerade ball on Kiowa street next Tuesday night the Ute Indians will dance the moon dance. The red-skinned "first Americans" will sit silent while the palefaces go through their quiet, whirling dances to Venus, but after they have finished, the Indians will have their turn and will dance to Diana. The festival will be appropriate, for, to use the words of Shelley or Keats or somebody, "That orbed maiden with white fire laden."

"Whom mortals call the moon" will be full on that day. The mask ball would have been good without the moon dance, no doubt about that, but now, as Mr. Dooley would put it, "It will be a grand night."

It all came about this way. The ball committee asked R. L. Holland, chairman of the Indian committee, to have the Indians give the dance. The man with the distinguished-looking hair said that he would have to communicate with the government Indian agent at the reservation, but he thought it would be all right. The bunch was good—it was all right, and the Indians will dance.

A few of the boxes for the ball are left, but not many. Tickets for general admission have already gone into the tenth or eleventh edition, and out at Bethel hospital three fat men are sitting on one printer to keep him from trying to print tickets all the time. They may take him to Pueblo today, but they are afraid the nurse will be there first. She is a pretty nurse, too.

THREE STATES OUT AFTER AUTO PRIZE

For the largest state representation in the big automobile parade, which opens the Shan Kive next Tuesday morning, the town of Manitou has offered a handsome cup, and three states—Oklahoma, Kansas and Texas—are going after it for all they are worth.

Last year Oklahoma carried off the prize, but this year there will be plenty of Sunflower and Lone Star state cars in the long line of march. D. V. Donaldson, who has charge of the parade, considered a truce medium yesterday. The truce medium said she saw a man being given a cup, but she couldn't tell who he was. At the time he looked like "Dynamite Ed," but at some time, he appeared to be Sam Houston and at others he seemed Senator Bristow.

The parade will form at 10 o'clock on Cascade avenue, opposite Glockner sanatorium, but the delegations from the three states will meet a quarter of an hour earlier at the following places: Oklahoma, south of Pikes Peak avenue, on Nevada avenue; Kansas, north of Pikes Peak avenue, on Nevada; and Texas, south of Huerfano street, on Cascade avenue. The chairman of the delegations are: H. C. Payne, Oklahoma; and Henry E. Gause, Kansas. The chairman of the Texas delegation has not been announced.

The number of cars that will take part in the big parade can not yet be estimated, as many of those intending to enter have not notified headquarters. A variety of inexpensive but showy material for decoration can be had at the headquarters, 3 East Pikes Peak avenue.

The line of march of the parade will be as follows: Form on Cascade avenue opposite the Glockner sanatorium at 10 o'clock, go south on Cascade to Chubb, east to Tejon, north to Kiowa, east to city hall, return to grandstand for award of prizes, west to Tejon, north to Platte, west to Cascade, north to end of parade, south to Huerfano, west to Manitou to reviewing stand for award of cup to largest delegation.

GARBAGE QUESTION UP

At the regular meeting of the council yesterday morning, the Chamber of Commerce and the Civic League brought up the question of the disposal of the city's garbage. The present contract expires September 1, and on their suggestion, it was decided to let it continue for three months before definite action on another contract is taken. The garbage now is used to feed hogs, but the state board of health says that 40 per cent of the hogs so fed are tubercular, and city physician Gillett and the civic organizations maintain that this is a danger to the people of the city. They say that the garbage should be sterilized before being fed to the hogs, or else destroyed.

The only objection that the council has to either of these plans is the cost, as, for instance, $30,000 a year is needed to operate an incinerator. During the temporary arrangements the two civic bodies will investigate the cost of the two methods of disposal mentioned, and will report to the council before November 1.

The other business coming up at the meeting yesterday was mostly routine. Public Accountant McMahon reported that the board of the city auditor and correct, Colorado Springs post No. 22, correct. A. R. was given $75 to help in the entertainment of the old soldiers on their way to and from the national encampment in Salt Lake City next month, and the Hillside Improvement society and the Federated Trades council were given permission to picnic at Prospect lake on Labor day. Mayor Avery will speak at this picnic.

Personal Mention

Carl Armentrout is in the city after an absence of several years spent in Canada and Alaska.

Fred Russell has been removed to his home from Bethel hospital, but will be confined to his home for two weeks.

A. E. Maunier, manager of the Pikes Peak Fuel company, has returned from Grinnell, Ia., and Kansas City, Mo., where he visited relatives and friends.

Mrs. Genevieve von Lackum, who was operated on at Bethel hospital three weeks ago, has recovered sufficiently to be removed to her home, 1318 North Chestnut street.

Judge and Mrs. T. F. Ryan and Mrs. Ryan's brother, J. A. McAvoy, all of St. Joseph, Mo., arrived in Colorado Springs yesterday and are staying at 611 North Cascade avenue. Judge Ryan is judge of the criminal and juvenile courts.

Mrs. F. H. Burrow of Topeka, Kan., an enthusiastic booster for this region is registered at the Navajo hotel, Manitou, and will spend some time here. She is the daughter-in-law of Judge P. B. Burrow of the Kansas supreme court, one of the most prominent jurists of the "Sunflower" state.

BARNDOLLAR CLAIM NOW IN STATE SUPREME COURT

Damages to the amount of $50,000 are asked by Minnie Barndollar in her suit just filed in the state supreme court against O. P. Grimes and W. C. Jones of this city. The sum involved in the action is represented by 400,000 shares of various mining stocks which Miss Barndollar alleges were left her by the late Harry Hall. Although the contention never was proved in court, plaintiff alleged that she was Hall's common-law wife. When she was grief-stricken over his death, which occurred January 29, 1909, she says, Grimes and Jones induced her to surrender to them as executors of the estate, 400,000 shares of mining stocks. Their refusal to do so brought about the suit for damages.

Miss Barndollar asks for 275,000 shares of the capital stock of the Bullfrog Searchlight Mining & Milling company, 66,000 shares Leadville Mines company, 10,000 shares of Bullfrog Nugget Mining company, 25,000 shares Pacific Rawlins Mining company, 12,000 shares Cripple Creek Consolidated Mining company, 4,000 shares Lost Canon Consolidated Deep Tunnel Gold Mining company, 18,187 shares Victor Mining, Drainage, Transportation & Tunnel company, 5,000 shares Florence E. Mining company, 7,000 shares Crescent Mining & Milling company, 5,000 shares Alameda Mining company, 23,000 shares El Paso Consolidated Gold Mining company.

SPRINGS OUT AFTER HOME FOR MEMBERS OF L. O. M.

The Chamber of Commerce, acting for the city of Colorado Springs, yesterday put in a bid for one of the five institutions which the Local Order of Moose will erect soon at a cost of $5,000,000. A wire was sent to the new supreme dictator of the order, which has just closed its annual convention in Kansas City, asking him to send a committee here to look over the ground and see the advantages offered in Colorado Springs.

The institutions to be erected include a trade school for children, home for the aged and infirm, home for orphans in Anderson, Ind., general sanatorium in the west and a tubercular sanatorium in some city with suitable climatic conditions.

After visiting this city about a year ago, the supreme dictator expressed himself as being very favorably impressed with the advantages offered by the region.

BILL STILL IN SENATE

The Colorado Springs land bill is still held up in the United States senate, according to a letter received by the mayor yesterday from Senator Guizendheim, and will not be presented to the senatorial committee on public lands until next December. The bill passed the house some weeks ago, and has been hung up in the senate committee ever since because of various protests against its passage.

If the bill passes the senate during the winter session it will become a law, if not it will have to be taken up again next spring by both houses of congress. It is probable that a committee from here will go to Washington in December in the interests of the measure. The bill provides for a grant of about 15,000 acres of land to Colorado Springs and Manitou. The land is located on the slopes of Pikes Peak, and if the tract is granted, it will be fenced and patrolled for watershed purposes.

M. E. CHURCH SOUTH HOLDS CONFERENCE

The fourth quarterly conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, met last night, presided over by Dr. I. A. Smith of Denver. The presiding elder delivered an address on "True Worship."

The reports given showed the church to be in better condition than ever. The Sunday school has grown greatly during the last year and congregations have increased. The organization for the coming year is already complete and plans for aggressive work have been adopted. All finances will be reported in full at the annual state conference next week in Pueblo.

FINAL PAYMENT IS MADE ON BLOCK EL PASO STOCK

The deal for 400,000 shares of El Paso Consolidated Gold Mining company stock, entered into June 1 by Beatty, Bernard, Eaton and others with New York and foreign capitalists, was closed by the making of the final payment here yesterday, through the Seaboard National bank of New York. The eastern and foreign capitalists were represented by Joseph Walker and Son, New York bankers. The deal was made on a basis of 90 cents a share.

El Paso stock now is selling on the New York curb at $1.18. A meeting of the El Paso stockholders has been called for September 10 at the offices of the company, suite 214, Equitable building, Denver, for the purpose of increasing the par value of the stock to $5, in order that it may be listed on the great stock exchanges in New York, Boston, London and Paris.

Allen L. Burris, president of the El Paso company, is in the east. He is given credit by mining men for engineering the sale of the 400,000 shares to the New York and foreign capitalists, in the face of great obstacles.

Dr. C. H. Ellsworth, Dentist, 16 Baldwin St., Rochester, N. Y., says: Foley Kidney Pills gave him immediate relief and strengthened him wonderfully. "For some time past I have been bothered with weak kidneys and bladder trouble. Irregular action, pain, and dizzy spells all troubled me. Foley Kidney Pills gave me immediate relief and strengthened me wonderfully. I am pleased to recommend their use."

Foley Kidney Pills are specially prepared for kidney and bladder ailments, and are always effective for rheumatism, backache, weak back and lumbago. The Robinson Drug Co.

WONDERFUL PICTURES AT STRAITON PARK TONIGHT

Preparations have been made by the street car company to take care of the big crowd expected to attend the exhibition this evening at Stratton park of one of the most wonderful moving pictures which has been produced.

The picture is entitled "A Trip to the Garden of Allah," and shows in three reels, a trip of more than 10,000 miles by automobile and water from Paris to the heart of the Sahara desert, where the garden of Allah is located.

Carl Balembi has prepared a special travel ticket to accompany the pictures, which will make them doubly interesting.

The pictures also will be shown tomorrow evening, and the entertainment will be free to the public.

Send Home Furniture

Tourists do not frequently plan to carry home furniture as souvenirs, because it is bulky and freight rates are high. But our prices are now so low that you can more than save the freight. Come in and see if this is not true. We will attend to the shipping. We are now forwarding furniture to points on both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, besides large quantities to states south and east. Remember, it seldom happens that a reputable firm attempts to close out so large a stock in a city of this size. Remember, too, that on fine goods freight rates may be an inconsiderable item.

HAPPENINGS IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

Edited by

Auto Polo, New Game, Will Be Played Here

Auto polo—the latest, most hazardous and most sensational sport of all, excepting aeroblane diving—is one of the special features for the carnival, next week. There will be two days of auto polo playing, on Saturday and Sunday. The game will be played on a specially constructed field, which will be a safe bet that there isn't any town—unless it be tourists from the city—who have ever seen auto polo. The game is a new one, and is known as "auto polo." It is a game of the future, and is played on a specially constructed field, which will be a safe bet that there isn't any town—unless it be tourists from the city—who have ever seen auto polo. The game is a new one, and is known as "auto polo." It is a game of the future, and is played on a specially constructed field, which will be a safe bet that there isn't any town—unless it be tourists from the city—who have ever seen auto polo.

but, for this time, it is said, Colorado Springs comes in ahead and gets the big attraction. As the name implies, auto polo is played by men in automobiles instead of on ponies. The machines will be stripped down, until there isn't a useless piece of trimming on them. The wheels will be taken off, and there will be nothing but the "works," the steering wheel and a seat for the driver. In addition to the driver, who necessarily must be a man who can handle a car, and have plenty of nerve, there will be a player on each auto, armed with a long mallet. The ball used is about the size of a basketball.

Specially Equipped Car. The machines are being equipped in Denver now for next week's events, and a new idea that has not yet been tried in Wichita, the home of auto polo, will be put into effect here. There will be a steel rod bent over the car, in the form of the old prairie schooner, so that the daring auto poloist tips over in making a turn on two wheels, the machine will roll over. It may right itself, and it may not, but it will save a lot of trouble, and possibly accidents, according to the experts. The games will be put on here by the American Auto Polo company, and Washburn field has been leased for the first two days of the sport to be witnessed in any part of the west.

Andy Almost Eliminated by a Schoolboy Sensation

SWPOT, R. I., Aug. 23.—Maurice McLoughlin, of San Francisco, who, T. C. Bundy, won the national lawn tennis championship, day, narrowly missed being eliminated from the tournament for the championship today by Philadelphia schoolboy player, Richard N. Ames, Jr. It was the second meeting of the players in three weeks; and, as a contest at Bay Ridge, McLoughlin was forced to extend himself to limit in five hard sets in order to come his opponent. The scores were 6-4, 5-7, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3. It was one of the four matches of the day in the tournament, and furnished the most sensational tennis seen here. The result of the day's play, McLoughlin will meet William J. Clothier of Philadelphia and Karl H. Behr of Philadelphia in the semi-finals tomorrow. Those who dropped of the tournament today, with Ames were Raymond D. Little, Jr., M. Church and William M. Hurns, all of New York.

His play was more careful than at Bay Ridge, but the defense of the youth finally broke before the steady onslaught of McLoughlin, and a couple of service aces and two brilliant place shots by the westerner settled matters.

It was the general opinion tonight that Williams will be an important factor in future national tournaments, for he has been the only one in this country, with the exception of W. A. Larned, to force McLoughlin to five-set matches. McLoughlin scored 171 points to 161 for Williams. In the stroke analysis, McLoughlin made 38 places and 65 service aces and scored on 46 nets; 62 out and 10 double faults by Williams. Williams made 48 places and 12 service aces and scored on 43 nets; 52 out and six double faults by McLoughlin. Clothier had a tussle with Little for one set, and then ran out the contest without difficulty. Behr had an easier time with Church, but Johnson was forced to play four sets before Washburn dropped out.

The final match for the national interscholastic championship was won by C. B. Herd of Pasadena, Cal., competing as the Harvard sectional champion. He defeated H. E. Weber, University of Illinois. The scores were 3-6, 6-2, 6-4, 6-2.

HILTON, LOW AND HUNTER TO PLAY FOR GOLF TITLE

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Now that the steamship Royal George has landed Harold H. Hilton and John Low safely in Quebec, it will probably be only a matter of days when accounts of the amateur practice of these distinguished amateur golfers will reach these parts. Both have the course of the Chicago Golf club at Wheaton, Ill., where the national amateur championship will be held early next month, as their objective point.

Hilton, as winner of the British title on several occasions as well as being holder of the United States Golf association crown, will, of course, be the central figure at Chicago. Low, it will be remembered, came here in 1903 as captain of the Oxford-Cambridge team, which made a tour of the country. Another well-known foreign amateur who intends to take part at Wheaton is Norman Hunter. This dashing player was also here with Low's 1903 team. There was some talk of John Ball, who won the British title at Westward Ho, coming over, but at present there seems to be little likelihood of the veteran making the trip. With Hilton, Low and Hunter on hand, however, the championship will assume unusual importance, even for a national event.

CUBS, PRINTERS LEAGUE, RETAIN LEADERSHIP.

BOSTON, Aug. 23.—Chicago, present champion of the National Printers Baseball league, won today in the final game of this year's series for the Gerry Hermann cup by defeating Indianapolis, 5 to 4.

Topperweins Give Great Exhibition of Shooting

The largest and most appreciative crowd that has ever gathered at the Colorado Springs Gun club grounds was in attendance yesterday afternoon to witness the splendid and almost marvelous fancy rifle, revolver and shotgun shooting by Ad Topperwein and Mrs. Topperwein of San Antonio, Texas.

The experts represent a gun, shell and powder firm, and their exhibition was in the interests of a pastime. Many who witnessed the exhibition yesterday expressed regret that the shooting could not have occurred during carnival week when thousands could have had the opportunity to see some phenomenal shooting.

It would be difficult to specialize on all the meritorious shooting stunts of the afternoon. Some of the most notable were breaking, with a .22-caliber rifle, walnuts and small muskrats thrown into the air; a quarter of brick hit three times in its flight, the first shot hitting it and then twice in succession, breaking the largest of the pieces; shooting a .22 cartridge into the ground, then extracting the shell and shooting the empty shell, tossed into the air, with same rifle before the tiny bit of brass fell to the ground; small blocks, tin cans, coal apples, oranges, eggs and even a can of tomatoes came into play as targets, and the results were remarkable.

With a shotgun, Mrs. Topperwein broke five eggs, good ones, too, thrown into the air simultaneously. Five swift shots from the Winchester did the work, together with the "lady behind the gun." Then Topperwein followed with an extraordinary feat. He threw the gun into the air with one hand and tossed up four eggs with the other, caught the gun, placed it to his shoulder, and in the four lightning shots that followed, not a guilty egg escaped.

Many difficult shots were made with the revolver using mirrors and the revolver held at various angles, as well as shooting simultaneously with a revolver held in each hand, one target in the air and the other on the ground. This was one of the most difficult feats of the afternoon.

Mrs. Topperwein closed the exhibition by breaking 97 out of 100 targets at the traps and was high score in the shooting squad for the day with Howard of Denver and Shewell, Garrett and Lawton of this city.

BALL AND CANTALOUPE AT THE ZOO TOMORROW

"Tub" Morris, formerly a star athlete at Colorado college, will bring the Rocky Ford baseball team, champions of the Arkansas valley, here tomorrow to play the Zoo. It is probable that several hundred people from Rocky Ford and the valley will accompany the team, coming in a special train.

To provide a treat for Springs folk, and also lest all these visitors should be homesick, Alderman Coughlin has determined that Sunday shall be cantaloupe day at the Zoo, more exactly, Rocky Ford cantaloupe day. Hundreds of the ripest melons in the valley gardens have been contracted for and cantaloupes will be served free to everyone within the gates after the game tomorrow.
